

Summer 2010, or Why So Little Progress on A&O 2.0

David #1 February 14, 2016, 10:33pm

Very little actual progress has taken place on A&O 2.0 for the past five months, but it doesn't mean the management hasn't been quite busy. The month of May and into June began the process of the final push to complete the significant landscaping project of the Railroad Residence. Then it was off to Europe for a long anticipated bit of train travel, much of it through Switzerland. Upon return it was back to yard work, finally completing the project yesterday, October 1. YEAH!! 😊 Now I can get focused back on the RR (my body is also glad). Some additions to the Construction Page are planned to catch up that chronicle with what has managed to get done here and there during this time. So, for you Forum readers amusement, attached are some photos to validate the above excuses-

Training in Switzerland and Scenery 1:1 scale

Bob #2 February 14, 2016, 10:33pm

So that's where you were this summer! The landscape looks fabulous, both in your back yard and in Switzerland's back yard.

That the Achinback Waterfall is finally finished must be wonderful news for you+Katy. It certainly is for us! 😊

Craig #3 February 14, 2016, 10:33pm

Wow David. My back just hurts LOOKING at those pictures.

I'm glad that you and Katy got to enjoy some nice R&R in Europe as well. It looks like an amazing place to visit. (Some day...some day).

Looking forward to the work sessions on the A&O 2.0.

And on hair brained ideas...I'm pretty sure that most of us model RR'ers have those ALL OF THE TIME! (Or so I am told by my girlfriend). hehehehehe